A recount of stock there showed them have caused the weakness in the marky positions count, but there a partial offset is an increase if about 15,000 of other kinds, but this was not shough to have caused the weakness in the marky position. Silvet metal was advanced further, going to 85 pence in the nearly position. Silvet metal was advanced further, going to 85 pence in London, compared with sight at $2.25, but it soon sagged to $8.26 and then recovered slightly, only in later work lower than ever it was reported as low as $2.35, with 60 days in $1.26. Other exchanges were lower, but hardly as much as sterling. The effect of this was naturally against values on this side, but less so than expected it means that there will be less likelihood of exporters getting into the lars a bale to offset the reduced amount they can get for their bills in the foreign moneys.

Opening on this side was slightly lower and there was little snap shown. Lower exchange and a reactionary stock market encouraged pressure and a need crate decline followed, but falled to get very far. Support was hased apparently on the character of political news coming from Washington and absence of weakness in spots, but later in the day offerings were heavier and demand smaller. The result was that values saged and the May position, which opened at $4.05c, touched $4.08c, sold down as low as $34.49c, with the list down in proportion, except that fall months were not quite as weak as the others. But little recovery from the bottom came. bottom came.
